A FREE COMPANION TO THE EXAMINER'S BRIEFING

The Examiner's Error Log

Score your own practice, station by station, from the examiner's side of the table.

After each practice station, tick every error you committed — or better, have the person who watched you tick them. None of these is about knowledge; all of them are fixable; most candidates commit at least one without knowing. Six stations to a sheet. The column with the most ticks is the next thing to practise. The error that appears in every column is the one costing you the exam.

THE ERROR	STATION 1	STATION 2	STATION 3	STATION 4	STATION 5	STATION 6
station name / date
Loss of structure the thread lost; the examiner could not follow	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
Unhearable or unfollowable too quiet, or too fast to track	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
Drifted off the theme rich background; the thing the station was built for left thin	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
Mistimed the clock ran out of time — or finished early into silence	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
Tick-box consultation a memorised list, not the person in front of me	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
Empathy that did not land the reflexive "okay"; warmth delivered while elsewhere	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
Risk, drugs or alcohol left out the lines that make a candidate look unsafe	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
Looked to the examiner checked their face for approval; glanced at the clock	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
Professionalism lapse cold, dismissive, or lost composure with a difficult patient	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
TICKS THIS STATION

THE ERROR IN EVERY COLUMN — AND THE ONE THING I WILL DO ABOUT IT THIS WEEK

Every station in The CASC Academy is built around one of these errors, shown failing twice and passing once.
